

The Principal's Report

Dear Parents

After Semi- and after Formal parties: don't do it!

I have been advised of a party one of our students is organising after the Year 11 social. There could well be others - this is just one that we know about. The details of this party that are circulating around the school include comments such as:

- "This is only for state high students"
- "We don't want broken glass so bring casks or flasks"
- "No drugs or smoking (inside)"...

...and so it goes on. We know that it will probably be overrun with every grub in town. We know about those groups who go to parties such as this with the sole intent of starting fights. We know it will probably end in tears, and we know that the school's good name will be dragged through the media, with the mandatory photos of drunken young people being dealt with. There will not be references to individual students, so their families can accept the community criticism, but references in the media, and on YouTube, to this school.

We will contact the parents and hope that they understand what we have learned the hard way.

If things have gone too far, we will notify the police and also attempt to contact the owners of the venue to advise them that the school does not associate itself with such parties, and that the school accepts no responsibility for them or for any damage that may be caused.

I think we have to realize that, in spite of our children's earnest pleas, there is no such thing as a small party, and there is no such thing as a controllable party, especially when the event and its location are broadcast to the general community.

YouTube

I don't access this site too often. On one occasion I looked for information about a singer called Paul Potts, and on another occasion a singer called Gurrumul. On both occasions I was rewarded beyond my wildest dreams.

There is however a dark side to this, and in this case I am referring to clips about this school that do us no favours. I do not approve of clips that clearly show students in school uniform fighting, or behaving dangerously. Some of these clips illustrate behaviour that is bullying or harassment.

I will attempt to have such clips removed through contacting YouTube. I will also instruct relevant students to remove the clip at once. I will alter the Behaviour Management Plan to have this behaviour specifically included, with appropriate consequences for what I consider is a high level misbehaviour.

I have no problem with our students' sharing their work on YouTube, such as the clips that show some of the wonderful singing and dancing on Polynesian night. My disagreement is with those whose immaturity results in the school's reputation being brought into question.

Rowing collision - a postscript

Without pre-empting the Maritime Safety investigation, I can find no evidence that either party was in the wrong. It seems to have been a total accident. We were very, very lucky. My continuing conversation with Maritime Safety is directed towards developing a code of conduct, couched in terms that are meaningful to young people, that attempts to ensure that ferries and student rowers never finish up occupying the same space on the river.

Kind regards

DAVID SUTTON, PRINCIPAL

Semester 1 Reporting 2008

This semester will see the introduction of a new format for reports that has been implemented within all Education Queensland state schools in 2008. The change has been made across the state to have consistency of reporting between Queensland schools and to provide a format which is more parent friendly.

The change for our students is that in each key learning area/subject students will be given an A-E grade in the areas of achievement, effort and behaviour.

Due to the introduction of the new system Semester 1 reports (for Year 8 through to Year 12 students) will be handed out by Thursday 24 July (the second week of Semester 2).

Should you have any concerns with your student's results please contact their class teacher or the relevant Head of Department.

KERRIE RICHARDS, HOD OF CURRICULUM

Tennis-multipurpose Court Construction

Please refer to the school's website for the progress of the construction. The rain has caused some delays but we are happy with the progress. We anticipate the courts will be completed by mid-August.

Upcoming Road Closures - Ernest Street

John Holland Construction is contracted by Southbank TAFE for the TAFE's redevelopment work. They advise they will be temporarily closing part of Ernest Street for reconstruction works from June through to August.

It is understood that it is only the northern end of Merivale Street that will be affected by the works that are being undertaken and students and staff of Brisbane State High School will still have pedestrian access.

Holland Construction have been requested by Brisbane State High School to ensure that safe management strategies are evident at all times.

Strategies such as:

- Signage
- Barricading
- Presence of traffic controllers

These strategies will assist with the smooth movement of students and staff to and from the buses and trains.

Financial News

All years 8-10 Semester 1 2008 subject contributions should now be paid and years 11 & 12 2008 subject contributions well underway.

Your prompt attention to any payments still outstanding would be greatly appreciated.

Subject Contributions are vital to the delivery of curriculum at our school. Please be assured that the whole of the subject contribution is used to provide resources for the education of students.

The budgets of subject areas are directly affected if the anticipated revenue is not received.

For those students who still have the 2008 Information and Technology Levy outstanding, right of use to computers, printing and internet access for the following periods will be blocked:

- Before school
- Morning tea & lunchtime
- After school

These are extra services provided by the School and do not form part of the allocation received from Education Queensland. If you have any questions please contact the accounts section on 32914111.

Heads of Department will see a reduction in their budgets from the commencement of Semester 2, 2008.

Library Books

Some may find a charge for Library books included on their latest statement. This is for significantly overdue books dating back to 2007. Students are reminded through weekly notices in form class of overdue books. Those who have been charged for books have also been followed up by Year Level Coordinators. The library would much prefer to have the overdue book returned however if this is not possible the charge for replacement is moderate.

P&C Donation

The P&C have included a $100 per student donation on the school invoices sent home to parents. The P&C has many projects planned for the school and would appreciate the assistance from parents towards these projects. Projects cannot be undertaken without the financial support of you, our parents. Please assist if you can. For further information on ways you can assist our school the P&C Administration Officer is available each Friday on 32914174.

Sports Contributions

Contributions are applied to the sports in which students choose to participate. The majority of the sports conducted at BSHS have a management committee under the auspices of the P&C Association. Sports Masters provide information to the students with regard to the structure of the sport, venues, uniforms, rules and regulations as well as the contribution applicable. The school collects the money on behalf of the P&C and its subcommittees.

Students who have outstanding sports contributions and general contribution (affiliation fee to GPS/QGSSA organisations) from previous years will not be able to participate in sport for the remainder of 2008 until the outstanding contributions have been paid.

The general contribution has an affiliation fee component. It also includes payment for the student diaries, ID cards, venue hire for full school assemblies and sporting carnivals and our graduation ceremony. Unless the affiliation fee is paid for the GPS, QGSSSA, Metropolitan East and composite organisations, students are not registered to participate. The school is not funded by EQ for this cost which is approximately $48,000 per year. It is imperative that parents support Brisbane State High School in its membership of the GPS, QGSSSA, Metropolitan East and composite organisations.

Semester 2 will see an interruption of playing of interschool sport for the remainder of 2008 for those students who still have the 2008 general levy outstanding at that time.

Parents are also reminded that where a subcommittee offers discounts to two or more students from the same family undertaking the same sport, the whole of the contribution needs to be paid to the school. Then, the whole of the contribution is transferred to the Sports Office with the Subcommittee refunding the discount to the parents at the end of the season. For further clarification please contact BSHS Sports Office on 3291 4243.

Ticket sales for the Year 11 Social close Wednesday 18 June. Tickets are $65. Please see the school website for Conditions Of Attendance www.brisbaneshs.eq.edu.au

Students will be advised of the close of dates for activities through form notices and the newsletter. To ensure that efficient and effective planning may be undertaken by our teachers and administrators it is essential that these close off dates be adhered to.

Our Mission

The Friends of BSHS Foundation aims to support Brisbane State High School in achieving its vision of creating "a vibrant learner-centred community". This will be achieved by raising funds, through tax deductible donations, for the development of new learning facilities that reflect the standard of education the school provides for its students.

We are proud to have Sir Leo Hielscher, Chairman of the Queensland Treasury Corporation and Brisbane State High School old boy, as the patron of the Friends of BSHS Foundation.

Why the Foundation Needs Your Help

The OneSchool Program

Building from the 2002-2005 ICTs for Learning strategy, the Smart Classrooms strategy establishes Information and Communication Technologies (ICTs) as the foundation of 21st century schools, where new technologies spark greater interaction between students, teachers, parents and guardians.

The foundation component of the Department's Smart Classrooms strategy is the OneSchool program. The OneSchool program involves the design and deployment of a comprehensive, flexible and sustainable information management system in Queensland state schools.

The OneSchool program is not just about securing a technology replacement for the current school-based system, but is concerned with delivering a comprehensive, flexible and sustainable information management system that will meet the future needs of the Department and schools.

The program will support the Department's core business of learning, teaching and the curriculum by providing functionality for:

- Student management
- Curriculum and learning management

- School resource management
- Financial and asset management
- Performance, reporting and analysis.

The OneSchool application is being designed and built in stages with each release adding more functionality. This enables the OneSchool project team and the EQ Department to ensure the OneSchool application meets the needs of schools. The current release, Release One, is being built in-house by members of the Department's OneSchool development team and its development is not associated with any other application built outside of the Department.

L.Young continued on her winning way with a great run to win the 13 years age group by three seconds. This race was one of the toughest challenges of her season as she had to carry a plaster cast on her left arm. The 13 years team placed 2nd in the team event section. The other members of the team were E.O'Neill and C.Bobbermen. The 14 years boys' team has taken all before them this season and outgunned all rivals to win their team event. BSHS scored some great places with C.Black(3rd), B.Cook(4th), T.Schmidt(10th). G.Anderson(14th) was not far away. In other good individual results T.Madden placed 10th in the 13 years boys' race. N.Dougall was placed 7th in the 16 years boy's race. The U16 team consisting of D.Daubaras, N.Dougall and T.Laycock also won their division. Congratulations to all who ran on the day.

Self-esteem - A Gift for Life

More than anything else, young people want to be listened to, trusted and respected. Sound familiar? Isn't that what we all want?

We acquire the beliefs and attitudes we have about ourselves early in life, but our need for personal validation stays with us forever. Fostering healthy self-esteem in our children is probably our most important task as parents. To grow up feeling good about oneself is a 'gift for life'.

Self-esteem is the way we feel about ourselves. Teenagers who feel good about themselves are usually healthier, make better students and have stronger friendships. They have fewer worries and fears and are not as easily depressed. Self-esteem grows when young people feel valued by the people around them, particularly their parents and friends.

Give your teenager the skills to handle life, rather than handling it for them.

Young people need to become confident about a number of things, including:

- Knowing they can work out problems if they stick with them
- Knowing that a problem in one part of their lives doesn't mean their whole life is a mess
- Taking responsibility, but not for everything that goes wrong - it's not always their fault
- Remembering to take responsibility for what goes right

Most parents want to reassure their teenager that they love them. But a lot of teenagers with low self-esteem need to know they are worthy of the love and have done something worthwhile. Encourage them to make their own decisions and give them challenges and opportunities to experience independence and savour the small successes.

How do you help them feel better about themselves?

- Tell them when they get things right
- Be specific about what you appreciate
- Don't make a big deal about praise - it's better to mention it in passing
- When your teenager does something right, don't take the credit away from them
- Make it clear you aren't giving up all your good times for them, so they won't feel guilty
- Trust them
- Respect them

Well-timed words and actions which say "You are capable and competent and your assets and strengths show" are important. Listen to them!

Their self-esteem isn't helped by:

- Being compared with their siblings, other relatives, other kids, or you as a teenager
- Nagging, lecturing or moralising
- Being put down ("You're a clumsy fool, just like your father" isn't helpful)
- Being flippantly dismissed or ignored

When they get things wrong:

- Keep communication calm
- Let them know what you want them to do
- Avoid turning molehills into mountains
- Show them how they can make amends
- Remind them of what they do well and when they get things right
- Point out things which are just bad luck and not their fault
- Tell them about a time you made a mess of things, but it all worked out

Chaplain's Reflections

I recently had the honour of taking a group of students from Brisbane State High School to an outdoor education centre as part of a program called 'Rock and Water'. I was so incredibly proud of the students because they all displayed incredible courage. The students climbed incredible heights, overcame impossible obstacles and discovered abilities of which they were previously unaware. Through these activities students stepped out into the greatest fear of all, 'The Unknown'.

During the excursion we came to an activity called a 'Pampa Pole'. As soon as students approached the clearing of this activity, most people laughed nervously and exclaimed that there was no way that they could succeed. Many students said that they did not even want to try this impossible task.

The 'Pampa Pole' consisted of an extremely tall power pole with a platform at the top. The goal was to climb to the top of the pole (obviously with safety harness) and then leap into bare air to hit a hanging fluorescent ball. I was so proud of all the students because not only did they all attempt and try the activity but they all completed it successfully. In a discussion afterwards the students reflected and shared that they had displayed true courage because they had faced a fear and had overcome. They had attempted something so foreign and unfamiliar and challenged themselves to the core.

The guys discussed some of the things that helped them succeed and experience victory through these activities. Encouragement from others, belief that you can succeed, focusing on the goal ahead rather than the obstacles or fears and confidently stepping out into the unknown were some of the suggestions made by students.

Sometimes it is easy to stay within our comfort zone. It is easy to keep doing the things that we know like the back of our hand. In our comfort zone there is no fear of failure and no real risk. However it is almost impossible to display courage within this zone as we do not face anything unknown. Everything is predictable. Without facing the unknown we cannot grow and be all that we were created to be.

Are you staying in your comfort zone? Are there areas in your life that are completely predictable and unchanging? Do you approach your assignments, sporting achievements, business decisions, life choices and relationships with a sense of predictability and certainty? Why not expand and challenge yourself intellectually, emotionally, physically and spiritually? I believe in the process you will begin to understand more about who you really are. You may even discover a secret ability or passion.
